TOPIC-DRIVEN SOCIAL COMMUNICATION COURSES FOR MOTIVATED YOUNG ADULTS 16-22+

Our transitions program Code Breakers helps young adults break the code of our complex social communication rules. Our goal is to help them gain a better understanding of social cues and context, one of the biggest predictors of success in the workforce.

By using a robust approach to real life issues through improvised role play and debriefing (with some improv fun along the way), Code Breakers prepares our clients for social communication success on campus, at work, and in life.

Our classes are typically six weekly one-hour meetings. Each six weeks develops one of our topics in depth.

We meet online through Zoom and expect to add in-person classes once again in the fall.

We are pleased that Code Breakers is a long-standing part of Georgia Tech's Excel curriculum.
